

ToxiCleanse:

A unique combination of herbs and healing fibers for detoxification

With all the emphasis upon the many myriads of potential toxins in the immediate environment of us all, efforts to assist the body in the denaturing and subsequent removal of these poisons from the body becomes of paramount importance. When considering the detoxification of the body, one must, of necessity, take into account, all the organs involved in elimination of waste such as the liver, kidney, bladder, colon and bowel. A formula designed to address all of these organ systems would be the most ideal. ToxiCleanse does exactly that, by providing a multi-faceted approach to both cleansing & detoxifying as well as enhancing elimination.

In our work with chronically ill individuals at our centers around the world we, at The Institute of Nutritional Science have found that cleansing the body of excess toxins and increasing the rate at which these toxins are safely processed, is extremely important. Those of you who have followed my work over the years may be familiar with my liver, kidney, and bowel-cleansing fast, which we have successfully used on thousands of people.

Recently we have simplified this program considerably. Now instead of having to take an herbal tablet and a fiber tablet, we have combined all of these factors into one convenient powder, which may be mixed with water or juice. This formula may be used in combination with our fast or as an adjunct to any nutrition program wherein extra detoxification may be required.
